MNA DISASTER RESPONSE WAREHOUSE

The Facility

The MNA Charles H. Jones Family Disaster Response Center supports the relief efforts of the Presbyterian Church in America (PCA) by marshaling critically-needed resources, supplied by God's people, to communities in critical need due to disasters. The 15,000 square foot facility, located on 1.5 acres in Rome Georgia, includes a warehouse, training center, repair facility, and a fenced parking area for the ministry's rolling stock of trucks and trailers.

All items contained within the warehouse and the warehouse itself have either been donated directly or purchased with donated funds.

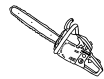

Deployment

The warehouse stocks three main categories of relief items. All items are deployed at no cost to those who need them.

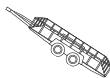

RELIEF SUPPLIES

Consumable supplies such as flood buckets, hygiene kits, school supply kits, and more are stocked in the warehouse for immediate deployment wherever needed.

EQUIPMENT

Chainsaws, water pumps, generators, and hand and power tools of all types are available for deployment to disaster sites.

ROLLING STOCK

Bunkhouses, showers, transport trailers, track loaders, trailer-mounted generators, and fuel trailers are available to deploy to disaster sites as needed.

About the Manager

Mike Kennamer
Warehouse Manager

Mike Kennamer was called to manage the MNA Disaster Response Warehouse in 2018. After serving on a part-time basis for three years, he retired from his job as a community college dean at the end of 2021 to pursue ministry full-time.

His responsibilities at the warehouse include inventory management, resource development, providing various types of training, maintaining the physical plant, and daily upkeep including cleaning the restrooms and washing the windows.

Mike and his wife Trisha live in Henagar, Alabama and are members of Grace Community Trenton (GA) PCA where Mike serves as a ruling elder. They have three grown sons and a growing brood of grandchildren.
